Subject Headings

CIVIL LIBERTIES

Use: CIVIL RIGHTS

Sometimes instead of searching by keywords, you may have better luck finding materials by consulting the Library of Congress Subject Headings (LCSH). This is important because you can sometimes get better search results. For example, articles, books, and web sites on the "death penalty" will usually be indexed under "Capital Punishment." To browse such headings, they are in the four thick red volumes on the left side of the reference desk. They are also listed in the Library Catalog and in some of the subscription databases. Spring 2009 Subject Headings

Here is just a sample of subject headings:

Fossil Hominids	Baboons Behavior	Autopsy	Genes
Fossil Man	Baboons Psychology	Forensic Anthropology	Genetics
Human Evolution	Chimpanzees Behavior	Forensic Sciences	Human genetics
Human Population Genetics	Chimpanzees Psychology	Human Remains	Human molecular genetics
Man, Prehistoric	Cognition in Animals	Mummies	Genetic Engineering
Paleoclimatology	Goodall Jane		Cloning
Paleontology	Gorilla Behavior		Stem Cells
Physical Anthropology	Gorillas Psychology		Human Embryo
Prehistoric Peoples	Human-animal
Primates—Evolution	Communication
Women Evolution	Primates--Evolution

Mainly Newspapers

Lexis-Nexis Academic Universe

Mostly full-text articles from hundreds of newspapers, transcripts from many news programs, and other news resources from all over the world.

ProQuest Diversity Databases

Full text articles to many alternative newspapers, newsletters, magazines, and peer-reviewed journals. Includes Alt-PressWatch, Ethnic NewsWatch, and GenderWatch.

Pamphlet Files— At the Library, we have several filing cabinets of articles and documents to many topics. Use the Card catalog that rests on TOP of the filing cabinet, and search by Library of Congress Subject Headings. Then find the folder that has the articles/documents related to your topic. You can check out up to five articles/pamphlets at the Check Out Desk.

World Wide Web

Face it. The World Wide Web can contain good resources for library research, but trying to find them is a chore! There is just too much junk and misinformation or web pages that have information without having their facts verified. Take caution and evaluate each web site you come across carefully. For guidelines for evaluation, use the Web Evaluation Checklist (found at <http://www.chabotcollege.edu/Library/abby/evaluation.html>).
