Subject Headings

CIVIL LIBERTIES

Use: CIVIL RIGHTS

Sometimes instead of searching by keywords, you may have better luck finding materials by consulting the Library of Congress Subject Headings (LCSH). This is important because you can sometimes get better search results. For example, articles, books, and web sites on Civil Liberties will usually be indexed under "Civil Rights." To browse such headings, they are in the five thick red volumes on the reference shelves, on the left side of the reference desk.

Web Resources

Use Web search engines (such as Google) last for your research, and if you do, be prepared to evaluate web sites with a very skeptical eye. For example, a student created an otherwise decent page on the literary author, Toni Morrison, but she linked to a web page that purported to be a research site on Martin Luther King that turned out to be a racist web site from a white supremacy group! Clearly she did not take the time to evaluate the web sites she selected, carefully. The Library has an effective web evaluation checklist available at: <http://www.chabotcollege.edu/Library/abby/evaluation.html>
