

I only provide Add Codes during the first week of the course, and I only do so if I determine that space is available and you follow the instructions given below.

If you are trying to register for a classroom section that is already closed on Class Web or you have missed the registration deadline, go to the first class to see if space is available.

If you are trying to register for an online section that is already closed on Class Web, I suggest that you check Class Web frequently to see if a space has become available on the Wait List. I will not be keeping a wait list of interested students.

If you haven't been able to register for an online section by the time the course begins, you can send an email to me at sraeber@chabotcollege.edu during the first week of the course.

If I determine space is available, I will email Add Codes to students in the order that I receive emails during the first week of the course.

Emails sent between now and the first week of the course will be deleted or ignored. I will only reply to emails sent during the first week of the course.
