President's Welcome (8:30 a.m.) – President Sperling

ILO Announcement (8:45 a.m.) - Cafeteria

Session begins in Cafeteria (8:50 a.m. – 9:00 a.m.)

Tuning the Choir: Innovations for Equity at Chabot College

Facilitated by Carmen Johnston, Kristin Land with various panelists

Faculty and Classified who have participated in equity inquiry groups will share out their reflections with an aim to generate interest in upcoming inquiry groups. Participants will be exposed to ideas for interrupting inequity in their work at Chabot, whether in the classroom or the larger Chabot community.

Breakout Session (9:05 a.m. – 10:45 a.m.)

Room Locations: 503, 504, 505, 506, 551, 552, 557

Morning Breakout Session: 11:00 a.m. – 12:15 p.m.

Attracting Outside Money for your Program

Room 504

Facilitated by Miguel Colon

The new budget will likely force the college to consolidate the number of classes offered as it focuses explicitly on certificates or degrees. That means “life enriching” classes not connected to a certificate or degree will either be cut, or significantly reduced. Understand that the college is merely one source of money for your program. In this session we’ll explore alternative ways to raise money for the classes and programs that deliver value beyond a certificate or degree.

Chabot College Flex Day 9/7/2018

*Please note that the schedule is subject to change

Chabot: Leading, Guiding, & Supporting Student CommunitiesRoom 751Facilitated by Sandra Genera, counselor and instructor with the Puente Program*

This session will look at the variety of programs we have on campus that help students across multiple majors by providing them with community, intrusive advising, and structured academic and social supports. Learn what methods they use to guide students toward their educational goal and to provide early supports to keep students engaged and progressing. Identify which methods you would like to incorporate into your programs in order to support your students.

Giving Back the ProblemRoom 3902Facilitated by Tommy Reed & Chabot College students*

BAADL students, along with some of the Umoja staff and faculty, will share a live learning session on Black student experience at Chabot. Over a century ago, W.E.B. Dubois asked the question: "How does it feel to be a problem?" While Dubois remarks regarding that question, "I answer seldom a word," BAADL students will engage us in a session on how they give the problem back. We will look at classroom experience, cultural identity, and institutional navigation in this session

Introduction to Project Based LearningRoom 2338Facilitated by Sean McFarland, Eric Heltzel, SIC team & PBL faculty*

In this workshop, the Student Initiative Center (SIC) team will introduce attendees to Project Based Learning, and offer tips for how to develop project-based learning units in their classes.

Participants will learn how they can get support developing and executing their projects from the SIC team. Participants will also learn about SIC's collaboration with Hayward's Tennyson Thrives Initiative, and be offered the opportunity to integrate their PBL projects into this Initiative

Nurturing a Positive Work EnvironmentRoom 807Facilitated by David Betts, Director of Employee & Labor Relations*

Civility & Workplace Conduct: While there is state-mandated training for managers and supervisors to learn about prevention of harassment, discrimination, and retaliation in the workplace, there is no such training required of classified professionals or faculty. This training provides some of that background information to help inform more of the college workforce about how to nurture a positive work environment, prevent and not be a part of harassment or abusive behavior, and to have a better understanding of the type of workplace behavior and relationships that we should expect of each other, our supervisors, and leaders.

Online Print RequestsRoom 1702Facilitated by Craig Shira*

Learn how to register for Print Shop Pro, learn about how to place online print requests, and have the opportunity to test the new system.

Pop Culture, Comics, and Geekery, OH MY: A Discussion Between Colleagues Room 307Facilitated by Lisa Carlsen*

Everyone geeks out about something. But how can we (or do we?) harness that for student learning? Using pop culture and comic books in academia has been gaining momentum as its high-interest for many students, a way of meeting students where they are and it's proving to be an effective and inclusive way to supplement course content. At Chabot, how do we already tap into pop culture, comic books and geekery/fandom on our campus? How can I fit that in my courses? What are the benefits faculty have shared? Join us for discussion!

Chabot College Flex Day 9/7/2018

A Primer on Facilities Committee IssuesRoom 553Facilitated by Mark Stephens*

This session will focus on the basics and background concerning facilities, infrastructure, and sustainability projects at Chabot. Some of the basic jargon, laws, and budget rules will be covered. We will look at the history of the Facilities committee so we can move forward using lessons learned. If you want to be better informed and more effective in guiding the physical future of Chabot, this session is for you.

Successful Career Journeys Start HereRoom 804Facilitated by Jennifer Lange faculty in Life Sciences, Health Care & Community Wellness FYE co-coordinator*

Do you know what career or field of study that you want to enter? Chabot has training for specific careers as well as academic programs that will get you started on the higher education path that will lead to transfer in a variety of in-demand fields. Explore options in each field with your classmates and advisers, engage with local professionals, and learn how to set and achieve your goal.

If this sounds good to you, come learn from our students how their programs develop and support their academic and professional skills. The Guided Pathways team will support you in developing and incorporating these techniques into your discipline's programs.

Supplemental Instruction: A New Learning Support Partnership Between Students & FacultyRoom 1801Facilitated by Scott Hildreth, Britney Harrison, Erin Kelly, Maria Rodriguez-Larrain, Rachael Tupper-Eoff, Jane Wolford*

Join us to learn more about an exciting learning support model field-tested by a small group of faculty this semester. Supplemental Instruction (SI) was pioneered by instructors at the University of Missouri-Kansas City in 1973 to support students in historically difficult courses. The SI model has since expanded across the nation and internationally. We plan to expand our SI offerings next semester. We welcome all faculty who want to learn about SI and give input as to how it might be best implemented here at Chabot.
